One

Ten short sections that individually occupy a fraction of a sheet. Section mode prints each on its own page; flow mode packs them until a sheet is full.

A second paragraph, so the section is taller than a heading but still nowhere near a page.

Two

Another section with a couple of sentences, the kind of content a subscription deck or a statement of work actually contains.

Three

Item	Quantity	Note
First	1	Small
Second	2	Medium
Third	3	Large

Text beneath the table.

Four

> A quoted line that must not be split across two sheets if it can be helped.

Body copy after the quote.

Five

Section five of ten, with enough words to wrap onto three lines at this measure, and no more.

Six

- First point
- Second point
- Third point

Seven

Section seven exists so the fixture spans more than one flowed page.

Eight

Section eight is ordinary prose and nothing more.

Nine

Section nine keeps the sequence honest, and gives the packer another block to place.

Ten

The last section, which must still appear in full at the end of the flow.